

History of William Murdoch - continued

After his death and followed by the death of his daughter, Mary Murray in November 1918, his wife Mary moved to Idaho to be near her children living there, and her two sisters and a brother at Lorenzo, Idaho. She passed away there June 22, 1929, and was brought to Heber City for burial beside her first husband, Samuel Lindsay. She had led a long and useful life. As a child she had left Scotland with her parents and had traveled by handcart in the same company as our "Wee Grannie" Murdoch, the ill-fated Martin-Willey Company in 1856.

This history was compiled from the writings of William Lindsay and others.
